

About Susan Howington

“I have been connecting people, resources and ideas my entire professional life; it comes naturally to me and I enjoy this activity immensely.”

Susan Howington is a sought-after expert in the Executive Career Transition field, applying her practical knowledge and visionary wisdom as a consultant, coach and industry speaker. Her remarkable success derives from her understanding that in circumstances of executive outplacement, nothing replaces the effectiveness of human interaction and person to person connections. Through Power Connections, Inc., Susan utilizes her highly respected reputation as a former regional executive with the firm of Lee Hecht Harrison to assist companies in transitioning their executives during outplacement initiatives. Her expertise in the process of career management, and her achievements throughout her corporate career, make her uniquely qualified to pilot the task of helping corporate executives move on to new opportunities.