

Mr. Caulfield is an accomplished expert within the hosting industry, having held senior executive positions at Capto Consulting, Savvis, Cable & Wireless, and Exodus. Under Savvis and Cable & Wireless, Mr. Caulfield had P & L responsibility for the hosting business segment, with approximately $400 million in revenue. He was also instrumental in turning around the Professional Services and Managed Security business segments, going from decline to growth. Tim has demonstrated strong leadership while operating in both growth and contracting markets. Repeatedly throughout his career, with technology start-ups and industry giants, he has provided the leadership, strategic vision, and operational expertise to guide organizations to success. Tim Caulfield is currently the Founder and Partner at Capto Consulting, Inc. (www.capto-consulting.com <<http://www.capto-consulting.com>>), which helps companies ensure their IT investments capture value by reducing IT operating Costs; improving service quality; fulfilling operational and business needs; accommodating shifts in economic conditions and consistently providing application and product functionality.

Mr. Caulfield holds an MBA from the University of Oregon and a BA from Clark University in Worcester, Massachusetts. He resides in Orange County, California.